

Hope To End Conflicts In Disarm Talks

By TOM OCHILTREE
GENEVA (AP)—Middle group diplomats at the 17-nation disarmament conference sought ways Sunday to work out a compromise between conflicting American and Soviet nuclear policies in the hope of heading off a testing race.

Their efforts formed part of a pattern of intricate pressures building up in and between Geneva, London, Washington and Moscow on this issue.

The United States is reported to have told several delegations here that President Kennedy intends to go ahead with the American testing series in mid-Pacific in late April unless negotiations produce a test ban treaty with efficient controls before then.

Ban Policy
Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other members of the American delegation sought to convince the eight middle countries of the rightness of U.S.-British policy on the test ban issue.

The Americans hope the eight—Brazil, India, Mexico, the United Arab Republic, Sweden, Burma, Nigeria and Ethiopia—will try in turn to press the Russians to reconsider their policy. Moscow claims no international inspection arrangements are necessary to prevent test cheating.

Among the eight themselves there was a hope that some formula could be hammered out which would blend the national inspection ideas of the Russians with the international policing arrangements insisted upon by the United States and Britain.

The nuclear test ban problem has captured the spotlight from the rival Soviet-American general disarmament proposals submitted to the conference last week.

Man, 20, Held After Killing State Trooper

PINE GROVE, Pa. (AP)—State Police Sgt. Edward Gundel, on his way to serve a warrant, was killed by a shotgun blast in the head Sunday night.

Police later arrested Ted Kemmerling, 20, the man named in the warrant, and held him for questioning.

State Police Maj. Singleton Sheaffer, in charge of the South-east District, said Gundel, 47, had received a call at home from Mrs. Margaret Irene Miller, Kemmerling's mother-in-law, saying she was being beaten.

Gundel, in charge of the Schuylkill Haven state police sub-station, and Pine Grove Police Chief Clayton Sites, set out to serve a warrant charging Kemmerling with assault.

As they drove up to Kemmerling's house, State Police said, Gundel spotted Kemmerling behind a garage.

"Hey Kemmerling, we want to see you a minute," the sergeant called.

A blast from a shotgun answered him, State Police said.

Sites gave immediate assistance to Gundel, who was dead on arrival at a Pottsville hospital. State Police from the Schuylkill Haven sub-station later arrested Kemmerling at his home. They said he surrendered peacefully.

Gundel, who lived in Pine Grove, was the father of three.

Lenten Meditation

Major H.G. Baker
The Salvation Army

THE CHALLENGE OF LENT
"CREATE in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me." Psalm 51:10. This is the meditative season of the Christian year, when the thoughts of those who love Christ look forward to Passion week and its commemoration of the great sacrifice. As men realize once more that their hope is rooted in divine suffering a certain instinct in them recoils from self-indulgence. For that is what Lent implies and involves if it is taken seriously. It is a challenge to honest inner inspection and the cultivation of those disciplines of the soul without which spiritual reality may become as unreal as a mirage.

In this day the modern man with his worship of comfort, it may seem absurd that any mortal should forego a dinner for the sake of his soul—how easy it is for him to forget the fact that man does not live by bread alone. Sacrifice or self-denial means more than doing without food. Both in theory and practice we have shut up sacrifice in Jesus alone, holding that the merit of his suffering is imputed to us without our sharing his suffering. No so with St. Paul, whose passion it was to be a partaker of the sufferings of Christ, so that he might win the high prize of life eternal.

Fear Airliner Exploded Over Pacific Ocean

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—U.S. officials said Monday there are indications that a missing military charter transport plane with 107 persons aboard exploded in the air over the Western Pacific.

An announcement by the Joint Rescue Coordination Center on Guam said the Liberian tanker T. L. Linzen reported seeing "a bright light strong enough to light the ship's bridge at 1:30 a.m. Guam time Friday."

"This was followed by two falling red lights described as one dropping fast and one dropping slow," the announcement said. It added that, "A disappearing ship was contact 17 miles from the radar contact for several seconds."

Guatemala Nears Brink Of Civil War

GUATEMALA (AP)—Government-controlled radio broadcasts charged Sunday that Castroists and Communists had pushed Guatemala to the brink of civil war and appealed for an end to the student-led revolt that erupted last Tuesday.

Radio stations also broadcast repeated appeals for blood donors. Twenty-seven persons were reported wounded in scattered street fighting in this capital city Saturday.

The over-all casualty toll was placed at 20 dead and more than 500 wounded.

The army, under orders from Conservative President Miguel Ydigoras, warned it would take all necessary measures to put down the revolt.

The capital was relatively quiet Sunday but heavily armed troops patrolled major streets and guarded key buildings.

The government radio denied earlier reports that Ydigoras had agreed to negotiate with student and political opposition leaders. The station said the students were acting subversively under Communist direction and that the government would not consider their demands.

The students launched their campaign as a protest against alleged frauds in last December's elections that returned Ydigoras' Conservative party to power. Some of the insurgents have demanded Ydigoras' resignation and dissolution of Congress.

Dilworth Urges Benefits Hike
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Richard Dilworth, Democratic organization-backed candidate for governor, telegraphed Pennsylvania's 30 Congressmen Sunday urging support of a bill now before the U.S. House that will extend unemployment compensation benefits.

Dilworth, who resigned last month after six years as mayor of Philadelphia to seek the governorship, said "the need for immediate action is especially urgent in Pennsylvania because of the expiration April 1 of temporary legislation passed last year."

He asserted that unless the bill is passed "thousands of long time unemployed Pennsylvanians will be cut off from extended jobless assistance."

Reports U.S., Reds Built Cambodia Radio Station

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—A former U.S. official in Cambodia said Sunday he has asked Congress to investigate what he termed "joint construction" of a Cambodian radio station by Chinese Communists and Americans.

The American, Albion Ross, said the project was carried out for the most part while he was in Cambodia, despite his protest.

He said he mailed a letter Sunday to Rep. Porter Hardy, D-Va., head of the House Government Operations subcommittee investigating allegations of misuse of American aid funds in the Far Eastern kingdom.

Ross, a former foreign correspondent (New York Times), served from February 1959 until November 1961 as chief of the communications media division of the American aid mission in Cambodia. He now is doing journalistic work and writing a column for

The Flying Tiger Line Super Constellation, bound for South Viet Nam and carrying 93 U.S. Army soldiers, 11 American crewmen and 3 South Vietnamese, vanished early Friday after leaving Guam en route to the Philippines.

A massive air and sea search has failed to turn up any solid trace of the plane.

Officials have given up all but the faintest hope of finding any survivors.

The center said the tanker searched the area without finding anything and then continued its course.

An intensive followup search by planes and ships failed to produce any concrete supporting evidence of a plane explosion, the center said, but a spokesman added: "With the search in its fourth day, more credence is given to the possibility that the tanker may have seen the missing aircraft explode in flight."

The four-engine, propeller-driven plane left Guam a few minutes before 9 p.m. Thursday on the 1,600-mile hop to the Philippines en route from Travis Air Force Base in California to South Viet Nam.

Routine Report
About 80 minutes later it radiated a routine report to Guam, giving no hint of trouble.

At the time, the plane was about 270 miles west of Guam and headed for Clark Field, north of Manila. It never was heard from again.

The rescue center also reported the U.S. escort destroyer Brister Seat reached an area 730 miles west of Guam where partially submerged objects were spotted Saturday and made positive identification of the object as a tree trunk floating vertically in the water.

Meanwhile, other search units were scanning an area 408 miles west-northwest of Guam where an Air Force plane reported spotting what appeared to be a flare Saturday night. A Navy plane found a freighter in the vicinity Sunday but it reported that it did not fire the flare.

Goes To Aid
One of the search planes, a Navy P5M seaplane from Sangley Point Naval Station, Philippines, made a safe landing at sea Sunday after one engine caught fire.

The pilot radioed that no one was hurt and that he would attempt to taxi more than 100 miles to port at Legaspi, on southeastern Luzon Island. The 7th Fleet seaplane tender Pine Island sped to the aid of the stricken craft.

The Army men on the missing charter plane reportedly were to join U.S. forces backing up the South Viet Nam government's fight against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Experts in Burbank, Calif., making a step-by-step investigation of the plane's flight said they found no evidence indicating sabotage.

Says Disarm Could Stimulate Economy Especially In Pa.

By JOHN KOENIG JR.
Associated Press Special Service
WASHINGTON (AP)—Disarmament would bring employment adjustment problems which could readily be solved, Walter W. Heller, chairman of the president's council of economic advisers, said Sunday.

In an interview with Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., taped for Pennsylvania television and radio stations, Heller said the economic adjustments in the economy after World War II and the Korean conflict are examples of what can be done.

One way to stimulate the economy should large-scale disarmament be carried out, Heller said, would be to cut taxes. In addition, he said, government construction programs could be launched at federal, state and local levels.

"Just suppose, for example, we cut our $30 billion of defense expenditures to $25 billion," he said.

Syria Readies Soldiers For New Battles

JERUSALEM (AP)—Syria was reported clearing villagers from the eastern coast of the Sea of Galilee Sunday and moving up reinforcements after Saturday's bloody battle with Israel's army.

Pledges of support for Syria came from Arab Jordan and even from President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic, which has feuded angrily with the Syrians since they broke from union with Cairo last year.

U.N. observers, who imposed a cease-fire after about six hours of furious fighting, began an investigation of Syria's charge of aggression lodged against Israel before the Mixed Armistice Commission.

The Foreign Affairs and Security Committee of Israel's Parliament met in special session to discuss the new crisis.

An Israeli army spokesman said the attacking columns had wiped out Syrian strongpoints at the east coast village of Northern Nubei (Nubei) from which artillery had been firing on Israeli fishermen in the Sea of Galilee. With that, he added, the task set for the Israeli army unit was considered accomplished.

While he said "all was quiet last night in the Sea of Galilee area," watchers on the western shore said heavy two-way traffic was observed all along the Syrian hill range of the east coast.

They reported Syrian army reinforcements were being brought up. They assumed the Syrians going in the other direction were villagers leaving in fear of further fighting.

"Suppose we put $5 billion of it into additional state and local expenditures and $5 billion into federal and allowed $15 billion for income tax reduction."

"Nobody can tell me that the American people wouldn't know how to make good use of a one-third cut in their income tax."

Heller agreed with Clark that pockets of persistent unemployment in the midst of a growing and generally prosperous economy are a definite problem.

Clark noted that a line could be drawn across Pennsylvania, roughly where the Allegheny Mountains begin, and that only southeast of that line in the state is in good economic shape.

"In the rest of the state," he said, "there is either vast unemployment, chronic and persistent, or we have rural areas of low income."

"In the hard coal regions—Wilkes-Barre, Scranton and Hazleton—13-plus per cent of the labor force is looking for work and can't find it. In Johnstown, it is 18 per cent. South of Pittsburgh in Fayette County—Uniontown, Connellsville—it is 22 per cent."

Heller said the Pennsylvania situation points up the nation's greatest economic problem—"namely, how are we going to create the jobs that are necessary to bring our overall and our Pennsylvania unemployment rate down at least to something like four per cent as an interim goal?"

"We don't accept that as a long-run goal, though we surely think that we ought to get back at least to the levels of full employment, or relatively high employment, employment, that we enjoyed during the 1950's," Heller said.

Mysterious Explosion Rips Spokane; Levels City Block

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A mysterious explosion, heard for 20 miles, demolished a North Side business block and rocked this city of nearly 200,000 Saturday night.

At least 31 persons were injured. There were no known dead.

"It was like London during the blitz," said Fire Chief W. A. Dunham Sunday as helmeted workers dug through debris where a cafe, pizza parlor, supermarket, used furniture store and a vacant unit had stood.

"It still seems impossible that no one died in that mess. Of course we really won't be sure until we've got the debris cleared."

Of the 31 requiring treatment for injuries, eight were hospitalized but only one was listed in serious condition. She was Eileen Moseng, 17, a waitress who staggered from the cafe with her body and face bloody and clothing in shreds.

Undetermined
Cause of the tremendous blast, which shattered windows and cracked plaster for blocks around when it went off at 8:30 p.m. remained undetermined. It touched off a fire which burned in the wreckage for hours.

"We haven't even been able to pinpoint the heart of the explosion and can't even guess at the cause until the basements are cleared—which may take until Monday," Dunham said.

Both the chief and officials of the Washington Water Power Co., the local utility, said evidence uncovered so far indicated it was not a natural gas explosion. Dunham said the impact area was too great.

The utility, which sent a 100-man crew to the scene, said test holes failed to show there had been any gas leaks. A demolition and explosives expert was flown here from Seattle and another was en route from California. An investigator also was on the way from the National Fire Protective Association.

Crews worked through the night under giant floodlights with a sense of urgency, driven by the possibility bodies might be buried in the wreckage.

"It was like a direct bomb hit," said Dunham. "It was the most devastating blast I've seen in 35 years with the department."

Flower Petals By Thousands

Jackie Cheered On Jaipur Visit

By FRANCES LEWINE
JAIPUR, India (AP)—This pink city welcomed Jacqueline Kennedy Sunday with cheers, flower petals, a spot of red dye on her forehead for good luck, and saluting royal elephants.

Monday, she will ride an elephant from the private herd of the Maharaja of Jaipur, one of her hosts on the visit to this scenic city, said an official posting her program.

Flying in from Udaipur on her nine-day tour of India, the American First Lady wore a costume almost matching the stones that make ancient Jaipur one of the world's most beautiful cities.

Bejeweled women in the best saris of India—robes of exciting shades of pink, gold and turquoise—and hundreds of school children greeted her at the airport with flower petals. They waved orange, white and green cloths, the colors of India's flag. She was given a garland of lotus fruit and a bouquet.

Throw Rice
Young women with rings in the left sides of their noses and bangles on their foreheads threw rice on the smiling visitor as a good luck symbol. One of them stepped forward and applied a spot of teeka, a red dye, to Mrs. Kennedy's forehead to insure more good fortune.

Others stood with decorated earthen water jugs, containing flowers, balanced on their heads—another gesture that the people of this princely state of Rajasthan reserve for high-ranking guests.

Women and children made a design of an elephant by spreading colored sand on the ground—a symbol of luxury.

A children's choir sang a song written especially for the welcome, telling Mrs. Kennedy "your fortune is that of a queen."

Musicians in a tent played Indian music.

In the hot Indian sun, thousands at the airport watched the bearded, turbaned governor of Rajasthan, Gurnumukh Nihal Singh, extend the official welcome. Then the 67-year-old governor, her host Sunday, escorted her to the waiting motorcade.

Other thousands, cheering and waving, lined the route into the city. Mrs. Kennedy, riding in a closed car, herself wore a colorful costume—a rose and lavender print coat with three-quarter-length sleeves over a matching, sleeveless dress.

The First Lady's host here for the second day of her visit will be the polo-playing Maharaja of Jaipur. The maharaja, a lieutenant general in the Indian army, drove his own maroon Cadillac convertible in Mrs. Kennedy's motorcade, with his son and wife.

He waved greetings to his people along the seven-mile route.

Rationing For Cubans Begins
HAVANA (AP)—A television panel member assured Cuban viewers Sunday the rationing of food due to start Monday will "benefit all in general, but especially housewives."

The panelist said the rationing plan would allow housewives to plan their menus in advance and eliminate the long, tedious lines so common up to now before Havana food stores.

Another panelist said rationing would "deal imperialism a blow" and expressed hope more food would be available soon.

The average man reacted cautiously to news about rationing. Some deplored it bitterly; others said it would assure them more food than before if the rations are to be distributed as outlined by the law.

Rationed items include rice and beans, basic items in the Cuban diet, also milk, eggs, beef, chicken and fish.

Accord Concludes 7-Yr. Battle; But Real Peace Doubtful

By GODFREY ANDERSON
PARIS (AP)—France announced Sunday night its long, costly and savage war with the Algerian nationalist rebels is at an end. But it faced the gloomy prospect of continued bitter struggle with European diehards sworn to keep Algeria French.

A cease-fire will take effect at noon Monday, ending a war that began 7 years, 4 months and 18 days ago.

The bloody fight between Algeria's nine million Moslems and one million Europeans had taken the lives of 17,250 French soldiers up to the start of 1962, the government said. Algerian rebel dead totaled 141,000.

But even as President Charles de Gaulle went on radio and television to urge the unqualified support of all Frenchmen to stop the bloodshed, the European Secret Army Organization in Algeria said it no longer regarded him as president and vowed a war to the finish.

No Casualties

Revolt Began!
Jubilation
But the mood in the Arab world was one of jubilation as Algeria, last of the French North African territories, took a big step on the road toward independence already achieved by Tunisia and Morocco. Algeria is the last major Arab territory still under foreign control.

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—This is how the Algerian nationalist rebellion began and how the first Frenchmen died:
On the morning of Nov. 1—All Saints' Day—of 1954, several hundred Algerians with hunting rifles and some machine guns moved out of the Aures Mountains of eastern Algeria for the opening attacks on the French.

Only a few weeks before, Guy Monneret, 26, and his 21-year-old wife, had arrived in the Aures Mountain hamlet of Tiflet. The Frenchman had come to teach in the mountains. On that All Saints' Day he and his wife had their first free time, and they decided to see the sights and visit the neighboring town of Arris.

They boarded an ancient bus, the only Europeans among the Moslem passengers. As the bus lumbered toward Arris, 15 Algerians with their rifles and a machine gun blocked the road. They stopped the bus.

"Send out the Frenchman!" cried one of the armed rebels.

Monneret and his wife stepped out. A machine gun moved them down.

More Bloodshed And Terror Feared Despite Cease Fire

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—Algerians received the news of a cease fire Monday that will bring only more bloodshed and terror. Reinforced troop patrols moved through the nearly deserted streets, alert for trouble either from Moslems or the European Secret Army Organization which is sworn to block the road to Algerian independence.

Hours before the announcement, the secret army vowed war on the Algerian nationalists and said it no longer regarded Charles de Gaulle as president of France.

"The cease-fire is now official," said the voice of a radio announcer, cutting in on a program of soft dinner music. His voice was somber, like the mood of the Europeans who dread what may lie ahead.

The silence of the city was broken by whistle blasts of tugboats in the harbor. They defiantly blew the five-beat "Algerie Francaise"—Algeria is French—the slogan of the diehards.

The great, ancient Casbah, where 80,000 Moslems live in squalor, was broodingly silent. Army troops built up new sandbag parapets around it.

Word was that Moslems in all cities long had been instructed by agents of the Algerian nationalists to avoid contact with Europeans when the cease-fire news came and to confine any demonstrations to their own quarters.

In Oran, Algeria's second-largest city, Europeans showed their defiance by crowding into the Algeria suburb. The army said there were no casualties.

Moslems began building stone barricades on the approaches to their areas, apparently fearing European attacks. Army patrols said Moslem men were manning the barricades with clubs and steel bars.

France sent 30,000 armor-backed troops into Algeria, and held 30,000 more ready within a 60-mile radius.

The cease-fire agreement was announced by Algerian Affairs Minister Louis Joxe at Evian, France, where French and Algerian teams had been struggling for 12 days with the final details of how to end the war.

A few hours after the announcement, France set free Mohammed Ben Bella, deputy premier of the provisional Algerian government and hero of the rebellion. He and four of his colleagues were flown to Switzerland and released after nearly six years of French imprisonment. In giving them their freedom, France lived up to an understanding that they would be released with the signing of a cease-fire agreement.

News of the agreement was welcomed—but with caution—in most world capitals aware of the struggle France and the Algerian nationalists still face with the secret army.

QUESTION: What do you think of the strictly five-cent parking meters on Main St., Stroudsburg?

HAROLD SCHMOEYER, Tannersville: "I really haven't given it much thought but from what I have seen today they are a nuisance."

HAROLD BURCH, Stroudsburg:

"I think if the borough needs the money they will get from the increase is necessary OK, but if it is just a way to get an expected increase they should not have been increased."

MRS. JOYCE PUGH, Stroudsburg: "I think they should have increased to meters on the side streets and not on Main Street. I have found today that it is almost impossible to find a parking space on Main Street so a person can park, run into a store and get the article they came downtown for and return home. I had to park three blocks away from the store I have just come from and all I did was purchase one article."

MRS. LUCILLE ACKERMAN, Minisink Hills: "I don't like them. I think they should still have an area for penny parking for people to make quick stops to run in and out of the store. You can see I have parked well off Main Street and then only because I was unable to find a parking space on Main Street."

Non-Farm Work Declines In Middle Atlantic Region

NONAGRICULTURAL employment in the Middle Atlantic region of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania declined seasonally from December to January, Louis F. Buckley, Regional Director of the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics announced today. In releasing the results of the Bureau's monthly survey of employment and earnings, Mr. Buckley pointed out that while employment was down 372,200 in January 1962 to 11,732,100 all major industry divisions but one, rose since last year resulting in an over the year gain of 213,200 jobs.

The largest reductions since December 1961 were concentrated in the trade and government groups which had sizable build-ups in retail trade and post office segments in November and December to handle the holiday season peaks and in contract construction. The number of jobs in trade establishments dropped by 183,000 to 2,292,900 in January, while those in government employment dropped by 58,600 to 1,587,000 and contract construction dropped 57,900 to 450,700. Largest participations in the manufacturing employment decline of 40,800 to the January level of 3,968,200 were in apparel and miscellaneous manufacturing industries which experienced seasonal declines of 10,200 to 8,400 respectively.

Despite a 1 cent an hour increase in hourly earnings reported by all three states, earnings of factory production were down in the area because of a decline in New Jersey and Pennsylvania and a half hour in New York. Average weekly earnings in New Jersey and Pennsylvania were down 9 cents to $101.50 and $94.71 respectively while New York reported average earnings which are down 70 cents to $94.94.

Each Taxpayer Entitled To At Least One Exemption

EVERY taxpayer is entitled to at least one personal exemption of $600 in filing his Federal income tax return for 1961, R.P. Brownell, Director of Internal Revenue for the Scranton District, said today.

A taxpayer who has reached his 65th birthday on or before January 1, 1962, or who was blind at the end of 1961, is entitled to an extra $600 exemption, and if both conditions existed, he gets two extra exemptions of $600 each.

The taxpayer's wife is also entitled to additional exemptions for age and blindness if she qualifies. Mr. Brownell said a taxpayer who files a separate return may claim his wife's personal exemption only if she had no income and was not the dependent of another taxpayer.

If the taxpayer's spouse died

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

Local Woman Arrested In Burglary

MISS Rosemary Burtner, 19, of Stroudsburg was arrested Friday and charged with taking part in a burglary at the Poco Lake Barn, Upper Mount Bethel Township, near Portland.

The police reported Miss Burtner allegedly accompanied Harold A. Transue, 19, of Minisink Hills on the burglary. Miss Burtner was released on her own recognizance.

Transue and James D. Smith, 18, also of Minisink Hills were arrested earlier and charged with the theft and resale of antiques during the past two months.

The two allegedly stole antiques from the Poco Lake Barn and then sold them to an East Stroudsburg antique dealer.

Hit And Run Smashes Into Phone Booth

STRODSBURG Police were called to the Atlantic Service Station on Park Ave., Stroudsburg, yesterday at 10 a.m. to investigate a hit and run accident involving a car and a telephone booth.

The accident was discovered shortly after 7:30 a.m. by Mrs. John Gebbie, wife of the service station owner.

The telephone booth is located on the south side of the building and was hit by such force that the glass was broken and the entire metal frame was sprung. The booth is a total loss, police said.

The car is unidentified but police have several clues and are continuing the investigation today.

Youth Changes Plea To Guilty

READING, Pa. (AP)—Michael Moore, 14, on trial for murdering a five-year-old girl, has changed his plea from innocent to guilty.

Judge Warren K. Hess of Berks County Common Pleas Court postponed sentencing Moore, pending a recommendation by the district attorney Monday.

Moore pleaded guilty Saturday to killing little Ann Darlington Oct. 14. The trial began Monday before a jury of six men and six women.

The victim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Darlington, was killed in the woods near her home on the outskirts of Reading. She was beaten and choked. Moore told police he lost his temper when the girl told him to leave the neighborhood.

Stroud Fire Co. Called For Train Fire

STROUD Township Fire Co. received a call Saturday at 9:40 p.m. from a railroad official of the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad to meet a train at Gravel Place to extinguish a fire.

The spokesman told Fire Chief Lester-Rice to have a truck at the crossing in eight minutes that the train would be there.

When the train arrived the fire from a hot journal box was out, but firemen doused the area with water to make certain it was out.

The car involved was loaded with beer to be taken into the New York City area. Neither the car nor the contents were damaged by fire.

Promises Help In Slum Project

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Federal Urban Renewal Administration has promised $100,000 to help find new homes for the inhabitants of Philadelphia's skid row who will be displaced by slum clearance programs.

The city had applied for a grant last summer. The delay in approval drew public attention when three men were killed and six others injured in a fire at a center city flophouse.

Says Red China To Test N-Bomb

TOKYO (AP)—A top-ranking Communist Chinese official was quoted Sunday by a Japanese visitor to Peiping as claiming Red China will explode a nuclear device this summer or fall. The Japanese government's security agency, which did not give the name of the official, said it had received several other reports bolstering belief that Red China will set off a nuclear blast before the year is out.

Two Die In Crash Near Leighton

TWO Carbon County people were killed yesterday at 12:30 a.m. on Route 29, one mile south of Leighton.

Killed in the two car crash were Mrs. Nancy Anthony, 18, of 401 A Flute St., Weissport, and Neal Delano Creitz, 25, of Palmerton, RD 2.

Others injured in the crash are Alan L. Anthony, Jr., 19, husband of the dead woman, and Terry Costenbader of Palmerton, RD 2. Both were listed by a spokesman in the Gnaden Huettel Memorial Hospital, Leighton, as "satisfactory."

The spokesman for the hospital declined to give the injuries of the two men.

Anthony and his wife were traveling south and Costenbader north on Route 29, State Police from Leighton Barracks said.

State Police added that witnesses reported the Anthony car ran off the side of the highway then crossed the medial strip and was hit broadside by the Costenbader vehicle. The Anthony car was traveling at a high rate of speed.

Creitz, a passenger in the Costenbader car, was injured in an accident Feb. 21, 1962 while working on a state highway near Palmerton. He was struck from behind by a car and hospitalized for a short time.

Both cars were demolished, police said.

Find Science Gap In Junior High

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The once teaching effectiveness in junior high schools, two National Science Teachers Association leaders agreed yesterday.

Many students in their volatile teens need only the spark of inspiring teaching and interesting study to awaken a zest that would carry them into science careers.

If the junior high school teacher cannot offer him new and interesting study, however, such a student will be bored by the science presented in school and turn his interest elsewhere.

"What is needed are teachers and courses to carry on the momentum for youngsters who already are fairly well-informed on new scientific developments," declared Charles L. Bikle of Hershey, Pa., a newly elected association director.

"I say we need our best teachers in junior high school. Students then are at the critical level when career interests and choices are shaping in a youngster's mind," Bikle told a news conference.

TS Depot Employee Denies Guilt In Equipment Theft

A MOUNT Pocono civil service careerman has denied in Federal Court, Scranton, that he was involved in the theft of various equipment from the Army Signal Depot at Tobyhanna.

Howell T. Whiting, 66, the only one of five defendants in the case to stand trial, insisted he was not part of the theft conspiracy, as claimed by government witness Harry Zinskie, Jr., of Blakely.

Zinskie, 30, who pleaded guilty to the same charges and was placed on probation for two years, was on the witness stand for about three hours.

Federal Judge Michael H. Sheridan denied a defense move for judgment of acquittal at the conclusion of the government's case.

The case was heard Thursday, the second day of the trial.

Lawrence J. Tenneriello, a depot fork-lift operator, first defense witness, identified himself as a personal friend of Whiting and insisted he never discussed the depot theft case with the defendant.

Defense Attorney Edwin Krawitz, Stroudsburg, questioned his client on various depot operations. Whiting testified he gave Zinskie a flashlight and test batteries for use at work. But, he denied Zinskie's assertion of having told him a box was "ready to go off the post."

The government had brought out the stolen goods were removed in box cars clearing the giant military installation. Zinskie charged that Whiting was a party to the thefts.

The defendant also asserted he had no arrangements with Zinskie or any of the others implicated in the thievery.

Zinskie was joined by Smith, formerly of Stroudsburg, now of California in pleading guilty. Francis B. Widloss, 54, justice of peace of Paradise Township, Monroe County, and Charles H. Beck, 59, of Carbondale, pleaded nolo contendere.

Whiting, a World War I Purple Heart veteran, insisted he did not "release" the car in question. A day or two later, he asserted, he heard from two or three sources regarding the boxcar and said:

"I could be nailed for this. It's pretty bad. I'd be responsible for the release of the car and the stuff in it."

Edward J. Langan, another witness, said several cars left the depot with dunnage lumber, which is used to protect items being shipped.

He said he confronted Whiting after becoming suspicious and opening a sealed boxcar on Dec. 23, 1959 and was informed the lumber was for the defendant. However, Whiting reportedly said he knew nothing about items in the boxes and that Beck had released the car. Beck was station master for the Lackawanna Railroad at Mount Pocono and Whiting had charge of off-loading at the depot.

Owners Association was formed two years ago, its goal being the protection of the interests of the people in the area affected by the dam. As we all know, this area has now been enlarged considerably by the plans for a Federal Recreation Area to be laid out in conjunction with the new lake created by the dam.

The public is urged to attend this meeting on March 22nd, to meet and hear Mr. Dressler. There will be a general question and answer period following his talk.

Car Runs Off Highway, No One Injured

LEIGHTON State Police investigated a one-car accident yesterday at 2:30 a.m. 300 feet east of Palmerton. The car was demolished, the driver escaped injury and a passenger received a bump on the head.

The driver was Harry H. Rhodes, 24, of 1059 Hazzard St., Palmerton. His passenger was Pauline Stevens, 22, of Northampton, RD 1.

Police said Rhodes was making a slight turn on a curve on Route 29 detour when he ran off the road, struck two guard rails, knocking them over and then traveling on to strike a twin utility pole.

The investigation will continue today.

Two Escape Injury In Rt. 29 Crash

TWO people escaped injury in a two car accident on Route 29 four and a half miles East of Palmerton yesterday at 3:20 p.m.

State Police from Leighton barracks identified the drivers as Charles Shupp, 18, of Palmerton, RD 1, and Carolyn Farantz, 29, of Pennsylvania Ave., Pen Argyl.

The accident occurred when Shupp made a left turn off Route 29 and hit the Farantz vehicle as it came down the hill. Police said Shupp was on the wrong side of the highway. He will be arrested on a charge of failure to yield one half of the highway.

Damage was estimated at $125 to the Shupp car and $150 to the Farantz vehicle.

Wildlife Week

National Wildlife Week, sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation will be observed from March 18 to March 24. Local sportsmen organizations, leading educators and other State conservation agencies including the Pennsylvania Game Commission are taking an active part in this program.

The primary theme this year deals with the serious waterfowl problem. Scarcity of suitable nesting areas caused by drought and drainage conditions has caused a considerable decline in the duck population. One of the aims of National Wildlife Week is to focus attention upon this problem so that measures might be taken to conserve the wetlands which are vital to an increased waterfowl population.

Many persons are unaware of the fact that Pennsylvania produces ducks in large numbers. Our many beaver dams scattered throughout the state produce ideal habitat for waterfowl. In addition to these beaver dams, numerous ducks are reared along the Susquehanna River watershed, the Pymatuning reservoir, and many of the lakes which are found within the borders of the state. Some of the species nesting within the state are mallards, black ducks and wood ducks. In addition to wild nesting birds, the Game Commission annually stocks wild ducks in suitable areas. Some of the birds are taken by hunters during the open season while others that escape the hunters guns spend the winter in the south and return to nest the following year.

However, Wildlife Week is not solely dedicated to ducks. It endeavors to bring before the public other objectives which are just as important. One of these is to encourage all citizens to become better informed as to the relationship between man and all natural resources. Another is to unite conservationists for a common cause.

Roy Trexler, Field Division Supervisor of the Pennsylvania Game Commission states that in cooperation with school officials, a number of programs have been planned for presentation in our schools. The program usually consists of a conservation film and a short lecture by a District Game Protector or some other Game Commission representative.

Water - A Most Vital Resource

The newspaper's editorial examination of the issues involved in industrial pollution of the Delaware and other area streams has recognized the complexity of the problem. Easy and inexpensive solutions cannot be contrived, for instance, for the unique phenol waste condition resulting from changes in blast furnace operations at Bethlehem Steel.

But the total problem of stream pollution is not unique, and it is to effective remedial science in the total problem that conservationists and economists have been addressing their efforts—and to which this newspaper has been commending public attention.

The vital resources represented by clear streams are as important as our industrial facility. Indeed commerce and industry are wholly dependent upon protection, wise use, of our water resources.

This is the only reason why more than a half-billion dollars has been programmed for immediate and long-range Delaware River watershed resources projects by the new federal-state Delaware River Basin Commission and other public agencies on the state and regional level.

Protection of the streams in this watershed — which holds the key to economically important adequate water supply and outdoor recreation to many millions in a vast region of Pennsylvania New York, New Jersey and Delaware (and other sectors of the nation as a result indirectly are dependent on the river's resources)—has as one of its most critical phases the problem of sound antipollution policies, as well as construction of flood control impounding dams, dikes, and sound agricultural and forestry conservation policies.

The management of Bethlehem Steel, which many times over has shown its social consciousness, is aware of the nature of this great issue, and it is spending large sums of money in an effort to cope with the current pollution problem involving blast furnace wastes.

But the fact remains that with continuing population growth, and industrial and domestic demands placing great new burdens on our streams, current laws and practices may not be adequate to provide a degree of guidance and regulation needed to guarantee future generations an adequate supply of pure water, and the other benefits that evolve from this resource.

The Supreme Court

I have a rather remarkable letter from a reader in Phoenix, Arizona, which explains to me why the teaching of civics should be restored to the public schools. The writer says:

"It is my belief that the duty of the Supreme Court, when a case comes before it, to decide it on the basis of law or whether the constitution has been violated. That they should be able lawyers, know the law or where to find it, and be thoroughly familiar with the constitution. They should not be politicians."

"Frequently cases are decided on a five to four basis. One side will claim some law or the constitution has been violated. How can that be possible? If they all know what the constitution says how can a decision be other than unanimous, one way or the other?"

The questions raised here are only difficult to answer because the writer apparently cannot envisage the Supreme Court, which consists of nine men appointed for life, all of whom are lawyers and know the Constitution. But the Constitution, like the Ten Commandments, is a tightly drawn document which from time to time requires interpretation.

For instance, we have moved into a wholly new relationship between government and production arising out of the fact that many industries are forced to unite to produce the kind of goods that the government buys as missiles, rockets, satellites, etc. These cannot be made by small enterprises or by a single company. Some 2000 American industries played a role in the Manhattan Project which produced the atom bomb. The application of the anti-trust laws to production will have to be reinterpreted to meet these conditions. In fact, both large and small industries are now essential—but the big ones are generally enormous.

Or to give another example: villages and even small towns are being deserted and more and more people are moving into large cities. The urbanization of our population has raised many questions of inter-racial relations in a country where there are about 19,000,000 Negroes, many of whom have in recent years left farms and plantations and moved to large cities; some of whom have fought in two wars abroad; others of whom have been to college. They have raised questions as to their rights under the Constitution which the Supreme Court had to hear.

A five to four decision is in no manner a violation of propriety; it simply means that nine trained lawyers of distinction have reached different conclusions in their interpretation of the identical clause in the Constitution as applied to a current situation brought before them. The Supreme Court initiates nothing. It does not act on a case unless it comes up to it from a lower court. The Supreme Court reviews decisions; it does not try cases. Naturally, each justice applies his own judgement to a problem; otherwise he would not perform any useful service.

This kind of correspondence is not unusual these days. I receive quite a few letters which attack the Supreme Court, the way the Communists used to. The attack is generally on Chief Justice Earl Warren who is being held responsible for the integration decision, although nine justices were responsible for it. Again, it needs to be pointed out that the Supreme Court did not initiate this case; that it comes from the lower courts, as all cases must, on appeal.

The attack on political judges is usually an attack on Chief Justice Warren, although Chief Justice Taft and Chief Justice Hughes were politicians of enormous dimensions before they found their places on the bench. Taft had been President; Hughes had been Governor of New York State and a candidate for President. Justice Hugo Black was a Senator and had, in his younger years, been a member of the Ku Klux Klan; yet today he is regarded as the most liberal judge on the bench. Justice Felix Frankfurter was a professor and was regarded as a radical; today he is probably the most correctly oriented and conservative member of the Court.

In a word, my correspondent ought to take a trip to Washington to see the Supreme Court at work and then he would understand what a magnificent institution it has been throughout our history. And he ought to read a good biography of Chief Justice John Marshall to learn how the Court came to be what it is.

Harrisburg—Ere the sun wadies down behind the mountains overlooking Pennsylvania's Capitol Hill today, the men will have been separated from the boys rather decisively within that somewhat turbulent realm of political forget-me-nots.

(By the same token it should be said to avoid any possible tinge of "discrimination" against the distaff side—the women will have been separated from the girls.)

We're referring to the fact that by deadline time today—5 p.m.—those who earlier aspired to public office but have now decided it isn't worth the head-knocking after all, will have officially withdrawn from the fray. This is the last day candidates may withdraw from the ruckus ahead.

In many ways this is a rather peculiar part of Pennsylvania's election schedule. The question might well be asked, as it already has many times, why should a candidate withdraw within the space of a week? Can't he (or she) make up his (or her) own mind before they file in the first place?

All of which brings up the nubbin of today's sun-setting epic. One week ago today was the deadline for candidates to file their nominating petitions with the State Elections Bureau—and today is the last day to withdraw.

What happens in that short interval of one week?

In the first place you have the congenial blunderbusses—the show-offs. These are the ones who knew originally they never would stay in the race; they just wanted to attract a little attention—perhaps to make bridge table chit-chat.

These are the ones who delight in running around having their nominating petitions signed, paying the nominal filing fee, and being listed—if only fleetingly—in the public prints as a "candidate" (something to pass along to bored grandchildren).

Then there are those—novices for the most part—who start out spiritedly and with waistcoat a-fly determined to wave the crusader flag, with visions of being perched atop some worn out white nag (horse, in this case). By the time the preliminary wars have tarnished their shield and a few personal smudges hurled by old-line machine cohorts have smitten them between the eyeballs, they're had it. They pull out on such "pull-out" days as today.

There are those who have been nicked by the organization somewhere along the line and are determined ("I'll get that guy if it's the last thing I do") to knock every blasted store tooth out of the organization candidate's oral cavity. These usually retire somewhat ignominiously to the nearest dentist where repairs are quietly made—after the firing of only a few preliminary shots. In other words—enough is enough and today's the day to get out.

Then there are those of a sly nature—definitely shrewd sports (they think)—who by hook or crook have gained some sort of stature in party circles and feel they quite definitely are qualified for something beside doorbell pushing for the other fellow. These aspirants are the ones who believe and hope they can scare the organization into a backing down fit at the last minute—with the official slating falling in their favor. Today's the day they retire.

Then there are those who really intended all along to fight for the nomination, the thought prevailing from the very beginning. But as they look at the handwriting on the sample ballot, they become convinced finally they don't stand too much of a chance. Today is the get-out-day for these; the loophole where they can withdraw with a decent show of grace and without looking like a cat on a hot tin roof for the remainder of the campaign.

After all, there are all kinds of "days" on the official calendar: "Be Kind To Moose Day"; "Red Throated Nuthatch Day" (for the birds); "Arbor Day", etc. Certainly it is only fitting that there be a "Candidate Poop-Out Day"—which is today in Pennsylvania!

Washington—Teamster President James R. Hoffa has been quietly maneuvered into a legal corner that could prove to be his undoing.

Attorneys for a rebel teamster group from Cincinnati, Ohio, are pressing in federal court here to force Teamster boss Hoffa to answer a long series of questions about his financial dealings that were left unanswered during the long Senate labor rackets committee probe of his activities.

They are requesting Federal Judge Edward Curran to direct Hoffa to answer these questions

The Allen-Scott Report

Hoffa Foes Ask Force

on the ground that his financial affairs the past 10 years are material to establishing that the international Teamsters are corruption-ridden.

The surprise appeal was made after Hoffa flatly refused to talk when attorney Raymond Larroco, who represents the Cincinnati Teamsters, tried to question him about his financial dealings with employers in pre-trial deposition hearings.

Hoffa's attorneys, Edward Bennett Williams and Ray Bergen, flatly contended that the questions were not relevant to whether the rebel union was entitled to quit the international Teamsters and take its $35,000 treasury with it.

Federal Judge Curran is set to make his ruling later this month. The court's decision is being watched closely by Attorney General Robert Kennedy as well as by lawyers for other local unions that have indicated they might follow the Cincinnati local and disaffiliate.

If the court orders Hoffa to answer the questions, Justice Department attorneys report that this will put the Teamster boss into the box they have wanted him in for some time.

Since the Senate Committee wound up its unfinished hearings on Hoffa, the Justice Department has been following up the leads developed initially by Senator John McClellan, chairman, and his investigators.

New Evidence—Many documents and much additional information that was unavailable to the McClellan Committee has now become available to the Justice Department, whose investigation has extended to every corner of the country.

If Hoffa is ordered to answer questions, this will clear the way for the explosive quizzing of the Teamster boss on the basis of this new information.

For instance, a favorable court ruling will permit the grilling of Hoffa on his mysterious international financial dealings that may have an effect on the security of this nation. These undercover transactions are now being probed by the FBI with some startling results.

In addition to the danger of new prosecutions, Hoffa is also risking a further breakup of his international Teamsters union. If the Cincinnati local can disaffiliate and carry off its $35,000 treasury, then other Teamster unions can do the same. This could set off a chain reaction that could leave Hoffa almost powerless.

More Funds—The House Appropriations subcommittee is planning to give a new financial shot in the arm to Attorney General Kennedy's nationwide investigation of Hoffa and his underworld and Communist associates.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., has privately agreed to vote a record $1.1 million for the department's Criminal Division to hire 37 additional crime-busters.

Half of these investigators will be assigned to the staff probing Hoffa's financial aid to Communist-influenced unions, including the mutual assistance pact signed by Hoffa and the International Union of Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers.

In this agreement, Hoffa and the officers of the union agreed to a broad range of cooperation on union matters as well as on "political activity beneficial to each other."

The preliminary investigation of these Hoffa activities has taken Justice department agents to Switzerland and Mexico to learn more about secret bank deposits in those countries.

Belling The Cat—Walter Sheridan, special assistant to the Attorney General, is privately predicting that 1962 will be the year that the Justice Department topples Hoffa. Sheridan is handling the sweeping probe of the Teamster czar. . . . Hoffa and his top aides in Washington have been privately testing some new listening devices that pick up phone conversations a block away from the Teamsters' headquarters. . . . Publication of the Senate labor rackets committee report on Hoffa is being held up by Senator John McClellan, Chairman, until after the cases involving Hoffa and other Teamster officials are disposed of by federal courts in Tampa, Fla., and New York City. . . . Walter Reuther is saying privately that President Kennedy "needs a good talking to" for "dragging his feet" on New Frontier promises. However, AFL-CIO President George Meany doesn't agree. He believes Kennedy is making good progress.

Inside You And Yours

Dear Doctor . . .

Dear Doctor: How does a low blood-sugar level affect you and what's the cure?

Mrs. N. C. (New Brunswick) Dear Mrs. C.: You feel hungry and tired. An abnormally low level brings on cold, clammy, insulin shock. The world blurs and you black out.

Candy, syrups and other sweets can flood you with sugar in an emergency.

In between, candy can be a bitter pill. Sweets whip up so much insulin production, extra blood sugar evaporates. Cortisone-medicines can sometimes counterbalance this extra insulin.

Your doctor knows.

Abdominal Pain Dear Doctor: My doctor can't find any reason for my pain low down in the abdomen. He advises a colon examination.

Is this really necessary? Mrs. S. A. (Okla.)

Jewelers often have to look inside to find out why a watch won't tick. Doctors may have to look at the trouble-spot, too, or study its shadow on colon x-ray pictures.

Your doctor merely wants to keep you ticking!

Cracking's The Rage! Dear Doctor: Besides cracking her knuckles, my daughter cracks her ankles, shoulders and neck. It's the current rage in her set.

Can she hurt herself?

Mrs. C. W. (Ind.) Dear Mrs. W.: Automatic muscle spasms keeps joints from overstretching and knocking bone against bone. When you push or throw any bone partly out of joint, these muscles tighten with a sudden snap—the cracking.

As the rage passes, your daughter should snap out of this snapping habit without any harm.

Painful Lump

Dear Doctor: My doctor wants to cut out a painful lump on my left hip. But I'm afraid of throwing myself into cancer. After several operations, my sister ended up with a draining cancer of the hip.

Mrs. L. L. (Ohio)

Dear Mrs. L.: An operation won't give you cancer—but it can separate you from your painful lump. Then, microscopic examination can tell more.

Meanwhile, x-rays can calm any cancer worry—even needed x-rays.

Eye Bequest

Dear Doctor: How do I go about willing my eyes to an eye bank?

Mrs. E. R. (Texas)

Dear Mrs. R.: You need an Eye Donor Pledge and Identification card. The donor form tells you exactly what to do.

You can obtain one from National Headquarters, The Eye-Bank for Sight Restoration, Inc., 210 East 64th St., New York 21, N.Y. (or from your local affiliated eye bank).

"Lady," wearily replied the male who had been hit by her car, "your arm was out, I'll admit. But, first it was up then down, then into circles, then straight out. That's a left turn signal!"

A police teletype was registering "wanted" notices and an operator at the station house read the reports into the radio microphone. This one brought conversation to halt: "Lefty Loomis. Height, 5'9". "This Loomis' clown," muttered Sergeant Epstein, "sounds like he's got two heads." "That's right," nodded the operator. "He has."

"Hm," pondered Sergeant Epstein. "Not much to go on except the scar and the tattoo!"

Just Between Us

Well, there's another room checked off the list of those to be renovated before the wedding. No matter how wildly impractical I may be about promening off to Pisa on a moment's notice — all right, a week's notice — I'm not so impractical as to turn down two eager amateur painters for a week end of work.

But if I go to Pisa with broken fingernails and practically indelible varnish stains, it's not because I helped but because I kept going in to reassure myself that the real world with real people and real work was still there.

It was real, all right, and at times almost too solid. All furniture, I've decided should be built with handles on it — like those old fashioned trunks. Most furniture has absolutely no place to grab hold of when you're trying to move it.

As prelude to what will probably be my one blaze of glory, it was an odd weekend — but a satisfying one. Besides the furniture moving, the painting, the scatter-rug washing, there was a sort of pre-birthday dinner prepared by my daughter, complete with cake.

And amazingly enough, despite her preoccupation with painting, nothing tasted of turpentine, either. Meanwhile there were buttons to sew on, hems to put up, and dresses to press — all in the sort of dreamlike state of not really believing I was going.

Well, it's just not reasonable. People who are going to fly to Europe to meet the President of the Republic simply does not turn up hems on old dresses, have the upstairs hall clogged with furniture, or help bulldoze dressers around.

The only thing is I hope I don't stop dreaming until the plane takes off from Idlewild next Wednesday night.

Mrs. Malsom President Of Noble Grands

Mountainhome Men Attend Church Breakfast

BARRETT — Fried potatoes, eggs, ham and cereal with juice, doughnuts and coffee were served to more than 60 men and boys at the annual Lenten breakfast in the Mountainhome Methodist Church Sunday, March 11.

Sponsored by the Usher's association, the breakfast was a time of fellowship and inspiration. Guest speaker, Rev. John O'Neill, pastor of Canadensis Methodist Church, spoke on Christ as a "Man To Behold". He told of the courage, kindness and love to be found in Christ and likewise in personal lives.

Working on food preparation were: Arthur Reisenwitz, John Reisenwitz, Wilson Heller, Oliver Van Buskirk, Kenneth Brutzman and Al Mutchler. Several men of the church acted as assistants.

Gordon Shaller, president of the Usher's Association and Rev. Carter served as greeters.

The next male breakfast for the men of the community will be held Laymen's Sunday, October 21.

400 Rally For Girl Scout Party

Approximately 400 Girl Scouts and their parents and friends attended the rally marking the 50th anniversary of Girl Scouting held by the Stroudsburg Neighborhood at Stroud Union High School gymnasium.

The rally opened with the flag ceremony led by Troop 335 of which Mrs. Barbara Garland is leader. Mrs. Elwood German, neighborhood chairman, was master of ceremony, and Mrs. Roger Acker led the group singing.

Dramatizations by Brownie Scouts were featured with Troop 336 led by Mrs. Gertrude Hippler presenting the Brownie Story; Troop 336 led by Mrs. Claribel Sebring, the investiture ceremony. The Penny Hike was dramatized by Troop 310 with Mrs. Mona Pinder as leader.

A cookout was presented by Troop 323 with Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Jennings as leader; the Cookie sale by Troop 310, led by Mrs. Ina Chapman; games and songs by Troop 318 led by Mrs. Rosemary Levy; a Fly Up Ceremony by Troop 327 with Mrs. Mary Moeller as leaders. Troop 359 of which Mrs. Shirley Congdon is leader demonstrated several ways to close a meeting.

All troops of the neighborhood contributed to the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund. Pencils bearing the inscription "Scranton Pocono Girl Scout Council were decorated with daisies made from construction paper on which each girl wrote her name and address. The pencils will be sent to different parts of the world to be given to children who may never have had an unsharpened pencil of their own. The project, "Dimes for Daisies" in memory of the Girl Scout founder, Juliette Low, whose nickname was Daisy. The decorated pencils were placed in decorated flower pots for the ceremony.

Mrs. Shirley Congdon was chairman of the rally committee and Mrs. Claribel Sebring of rally publicity.

Music, Dramatized Reading Announced For Silver Tea

Alberta Yutz, soprano, will be featured soloist at a Silver Tea benefitting mentally retarded girls of the Hamburg State School and Hospital, to be held Monday, March 26, at 8 o'clock in the social rooms of Stroudsburg Methodist Church. Sponsors are The Women of Wyckoff's, an organization composed of approximately 40 A. B. Wyckoff employees and friends who have taken one ward of the hospital under special care.

Mrs. Yutz and Mrs. Mel Dunn, a Wyckoff employee, will set the stage for a dramatized reading of "The Scarlet Lily," to be presented by Madelyn Maloney, "The Wyckoff Shopper." It is they who will create the mood for the drama, which will focus on nine characters who participate in the telling of the story which depicts the life of Christ from birth to Crucifixion, as presumably witnessed by Mary Magdalene. Mrs. Maloney has previously presented the program before numerous school organizations, women's clubs, and both Catholic and Protestant church groups in the Albany-Schenectady area, as well as before the Women's Guild of the Zion Evangelical-Reformed church and Gradale Sorority here. It is done with a minimum of props, and without special costuming.

Mrs. Yutz, wife of Herbert Yutz, of Spangenburg Avenue, East Stroudsburg, is one of this area's best known soloists. For a number of years, she has sung with the Pocono Community Chorus, and has had featured roles in the folk opera, "Down in the Valley," as well as in "Brigadoon" and "Front Row Center." With the chorus she has appeared in concerts at Pocono Manor, as well as in Harrisburg, Pa., and Trenton, N. J. A student of Dorothy Lisette, of Stroudsburg, she is a frequent guest soloist in churches throughout the Poconos, and is a regular member of the choir at Zion United Church of Christ, which Mrs. Dunn directs.

Mrs. Lucy Quig, Zion church organist, will be the accompanist, and will present background music during the final scene of the drama.

Mrs. Yutz's selections will include "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked," O'Hara; "Wonder As I Wander," Niles; and "The Holy Hour," lyrics of which are set to the melody of "The Rosary" by Nevin.

Background for the program is in charge of Mrs. Betty Frantz, of the Wyckoff display department; Misses Beatrice arranging the Tea table over which Mrs. Ernest H. Wyckoff, Sr., and Mrs. J. L. Kerlin will preside, and G. Francis Meredith is in charge of posters. Programs are being designed by Miss Marlene Andrews, staff artist of the advertising department, with Miss Donna Sandt in charge of printing.

Marriage Roundtable Here Names Bollier Moderator

Recognizing that one of the most important choices a young person makes in a lifetime is that of a marriage partner, the Monroe County Ministerium is conducting a Marriage Roundtable on Saturday, March 31.

All young people who are newly married, have announced their engagements or are contemplating marriage within the next year are invited to attend the session. Rev. John A. Bollier, minister of the Presbyterian Church of Stroudsburg who is serving as coordinator of the course.

Mr. Bollier has been minister of the Stroudsburg Church for seven years, coming here from York. He obtained his education at the University of Michigan and Princeton Theological Seminary and has studied in Germany and Switzerland. He is married to the former Gertrude Lothian of Detroit, Mich., and is the father of three sons.

Mr. Bollier will introduce the speakers for each subject and will serve as moderator for the discussions which will follow. Subjects to be covered are "The Spiritual Values in Marriage," "Money and Budgeting," "Interpersonal Relationship" and "Sexual Harmony in Marriage."

"Premarital and marriage education is still in its early stages and not many people are aware of its values. Although our local ministers always counsel the young people who come to them to be married, the roundtable will provide several additional hours of discussion on all the aspects of married life," Mr. Bollier said yesterday.

Groner At Anomink PTA Meet

Anomink — Children must be educated to serve society, Earl F. Groner, superintendent of the Stroud Union School District, told the audience at the Anomink Parent-Teachers Assn. in speaking of "Modern Trends of Education".

The school is an institution established by society for the purpose of fulfilling individual or group needs. Groner said, and educators must recognize the dynamic character of education brought about by constant changes in society. The schools must reflect changes that are currently taking place and take note of the direction others are likely to take in the future.

"Intellectual excellence" is a prime goal of education with the teacher as the key, he said.

He was introduced by Mrs. Edwin Fuhrer. Mrs. Marshall Carlton presided at the business meeting. Coming events included a meeting of the curriculum committee at the Arlington Heights school on Wednesday March 21 at 9:30 a.m. when arithmetic will be the theme of the discussion.

The County Council of PTA will meet at the Pleasant Valley High School on Thursday, March 29 at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Robert Ace reported for the project committee. Harry Anton principal announced that preschool registration would begin April 2 at the Arlington Heights School.

The attendance banner was won by Anton's room. Refreshments were served from a table decorated in the St. Patrick's Day theme.

Honor Pastor, Wife On 35th Anniversary

KUNKLETOWN — The Ladies Aid Society of St. Matthew's Church met in the Community Hall, Kunkletown, Wednesday for their weekly quilting bee. Highlighting the occasion was a dinner prepared by the members in honor of the 35th wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. Adan A. Bohner.

Additional guests were Mrs. May Goldman, Mrs. Bohner's mother, and Roger Bohner, son of the guests of honor.

Attending were Mabel Gower, Carrie Smith, Carrie Drumheller, Elsie Derhammer, Hattie Hawk, Helen Berger, Alma Smale, Emma Borger, and Miriam Lobach. The group presented the guests of honor with a tablecloth and setting of place mats.

Fellowship Honors Pastor

Delaware Water Gap — The Methodist Youth Fellowship gave their pastor, Rev. Raymond Postris, a surprise, Sunday morning, during the worship service. They sang his favorite number; "Whispering Hope" and presented $25 to the church carpet fund.

This was in honor of Mr. Postris' having received his certificate permitting him to administer all the sacraments of the church. He has been studying the "Preparation For the Ministry" and is continuing with more advanced studies.

The young people in the choir were Beth Shoemaker, Carol Widoss, Linda Kitchen, Linda Widoss, Patricia Ponder, Diane Widoss, Isabel Mannix, Leslie Younklin, Faith Lightner, Mrs. Pauline Carrescia, Allan Bryfoglie, Paul Runyan, Larry Lightner, Jack Court, Mr. & Mrs. DeVice Keiper.

Fifteen minutes have a way of flying past so rapidly, I often regret Wyckoff's does not have a daily half hour of radio time. But on Friday I discovered something . . . a half hour goes just as quickly when one has something important to say. And of course everything we said on Friday WAS important, for Ann Hagry, home economist for Frigidaire, knows her appliances inside and out, to the extent that she can mix a crab bisque with ease and, at the very same time, tell you about the two big ovens of the Flair range that operate with separate controls, and are equipped for both baking and broiling.

I've been in love with the Flair range ever since it made its first appearance in our store, and I was quite serious when I said it is almost too beautiful to be confined to the kitchen. It's a masterpiece of styling and efficiency, and if I owned one I'd be so proud of it, I'd spend long evenings away from the office just gazing at it ecstatically. I might even cook and bake with it, once in awhile, although—even with Ann's assurance that it's the easiest range in the world to clean—I still think it a shame to sully its appearance for even a moment.

The Flair has a marvelous cabinet base that would hold seeds of things . . . pots, pans, staple household items, even a woman's handbag I presume, since Ann had hers there. This contribution of space is one many households would appreciate. The range surface is another delight . . . it appears only when you wish it in view. Most of the time it is tucked out of sight, for the four burners are actually IN A DRAWER. What's more, they lift out in a twinkling for a quick scouring. I suppose the major advantage of a drawer-type range is that one has a lot of extra space when the stove is not in use. I can also see the advantage of being able to slide the burners out of sight if something has boiled over and one hasn't time to scrub up the mess before company arrives. (If I sound as though I'm NOT the world's best housekeeper, you're getting an accurate picture!)

But perhaps the feature I like best about the Flair is its elegant glass top . . . two big double panes of glass, designed with graceful swirls of white, behind which one's roast or steak browns enticingly while biscuits grow higher . . . wider . . . plumper . . . and increasingly appetizing. What goes on inside a Flair oven is better than a television show!

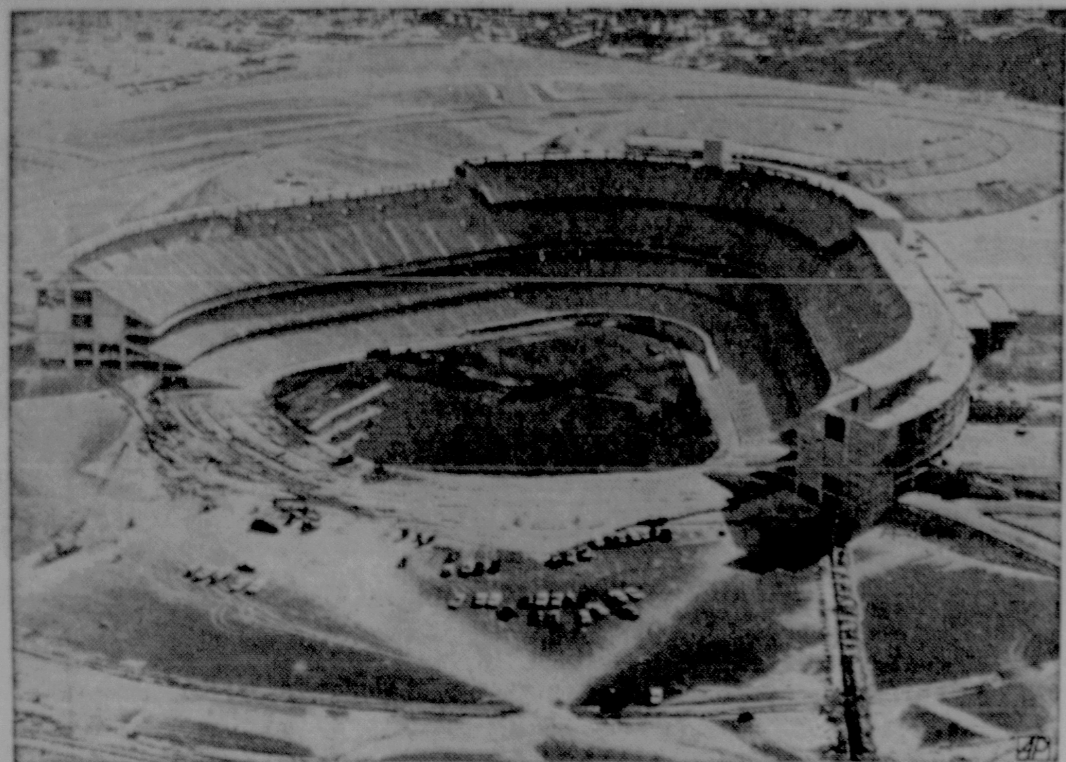

At one point, I could not resist teasing a bit. Very thoughtfully, Ann had jotted down a few questions I might ask, just in case I ran out of them. One concerned the range a woman should buy if she could not afford a "top of the line" model. When I asked this, Ann feigned surprise. "Oh," she gurgled happily, "I'm so PLEASED you asked me that."

"I had to," I reminded her impishly. "You SAID I should."

But in all seriousness I'm delighted she did, for otherwise we might not have mentioned on the air that Frigidaire has many models of ALL appliances—washers, dishwashers, refrigerators, dryers—all styled and manufactured with quality in mind. Whatever you pay, you're buying the very best for your dollar when you buy FRIGIDAIRE.

As for Ann's Crab Bisque, it's so delicious and so easily made I'll pass the recipe along. Try it . . . and remember, it tastes even better when prepared on a FLAIR. Combine 2 cans condensed cream of asparagus soup; 2 cans condensed cream of mushroom soup; 3 cups milk and 2 cups light cream. Stir in two 6½ ounce cans (2 cups) of flaked crab meat. Place over low heat until almost boiling. If desired, top with fluffs of salted whipped cream and a sprinkling of chives, or stir in ½ cup of cooking sherry just before serving. It's delicious!

Yankees Extend Win String With 10-3 Nod Over Sox

The all-conquering New York Yankees won their eighth exhibition game Sunday by blasting the Chicago White Sox 10-3, and the Chicago Cubs extended the longest winning streak among National League baseball clubs to six with a 6-5 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

The Yankees broke it open with six runs in the fifth as 11 men went to the plate against White Sox rookie Joel Horlen, who gave up four hits and five walks. Home run king Roger Maris played eight innings for the Yanks, getting two singles at New York's Fort Lauderdale, Fla., base. Rookie outfielder Lou Brock went 5-for-5 with a triple and four singles as the Cubs bopped the Red Sox at Scottsdale, building a 4-1 lead behind pitcher Don Cardwell. That gave the Chicagoans, who lost their first three by one run, a 6-3 record.

In other games, Detroit walloped Cincinnati 12-6 at Tampa, St. Louis edged Milwaukee 7-6 in 11 innings at Bardenon, Kansas City subdued Pittsburgh 3-1 at Fort Myers, San Francisco defeated Cleveland 4-1 at Tucson, the Los Angeles Angels belted Houston 14-8 in 11 innings at Apache Junction, Philadelphia nipped the New York Mets 3-2 at St. Petersburg and Minnesota beat Washington 6-3 at Orlando. Roger Craig went eight innings for the Mets, giving up four hits and all the Phils runs while his teammates were throttled on seven hits by Jim Owens, Frank Sullivan and Jack Baldschun.

Catty Meets Norristown Wed. Night

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
PIAA basketball play enters the blue chip stage this week winding up with championships in Classes A, B and C Saturday night.

Class A shapes up as a four-way contest between Uniontown (Dist. 7 WPIAL) and Pittsburgh Fifth Avenue (8) in the west and Catawauqua (11) and Norristown (1) in the east. They will play for region honors Wednesday night.

Catawauqua made certain a new state champion would be crowned in Class A play this year by whipping defending champion Nanticoke, 61-51, Saturday night.

Uniontown Moves
Uniontown, last A state champion in 1955, moved into the western finals Saturday night by scoring a decisive 59-46 victory over Altoona. Pittsburgh Fifth Avenue remained in contention with a 66-55 victory over Meadville.

Regional finals in Class B will be played Tuesday night. Darby (1) will meet Mansfield for the eastern title while Edgewood (7) will play Mercer (10) for the western championship.

In one other contest Saturday night, Pittsburgh North Catholic won the Class A PCIAA championship by whipping Levittown Bishop Egan, 75-67.

Bethlehem Catholic and St. Michael's of Greenville will meet for Class B PCIAA honors Saturday night.

Penna. Team Beaten For NAIA Title

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Coach Leroy Moore of Prairie View A. & M. (Tex.) College credits springy Zelman Beatty's fine work under the baskets and team effort for victory over Westminster (Pa.) in the National Intercollegiate (NAIA) basketball finals Saturday night.

Beatty, a 6-foot 8-inch 230 pound senior, scored 28 points and grabbed 29 rebounds in leading the tall and speedy all-Negro team to a 62-53 victory over Westminster (Pa.) Titans, the nation's No. 1 ranked small college outfit.

Although outscoring Westminster by only one field goal, 23-22, Prairie View was in front all the way; led 24-17 at the half and was on top by 16 points, 56-39, with 4:17 left.

Westminster's Little All-America, 6-0 Ron Galbreath, also had a good night, scoring 22 points.

It was Westminster's second successful trip into the finals. The Titans were beaten by Southwest Texas State in 1960 and finished fourth last year.

Buckeyes Face Deacons; Cats Meet UCLA In Semis

Ohio State and Cincinnati, the nation's top-ranked college basketball teams with a total of only three defeats in 55 games, are favored to play an encore in the finals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Championships Saturday at Louisville's Freedom Hall.

The top-rated Buckeyes, with a 25-1 mark, and the second-ranked Bearcats, with a 27-2 record, met a year ago for the title, with Cincinnati winning in overtime, 70-65. But to qualify for basketball's "natural", they must dispose of two oft-beaten teams Friday night in the semifinals. Ohio State, led by All-America Jerry Lucas, opposes Wake Forest (21-8), the Atlantic Coast Conference champion, and Cincinnati's well-balanced outfit tangles with UCLA (18-9), the Big Five Conference titlist.

The four survivors moved into round four Saturday night with victories in regional tournaments. Ohio State throttled Kentucky's hopes with a 74-64 victory at Iowa City, Iowa. Cincinnati measured Colorado 73-46 at Manhattan, Kan. Wake Forest, which went into overtime and won its first two championship games, got the job done in regulation time in downing Villanova 79-69 at College Park, Md. And UCLA wrapped up the Far-West Regional with an 88-69 triumph over Oregon State at Provo, Utah.

The NCAA regionals topped a weekend of tournament play that saw Dayton and Loyola of Chicago reach the semifinals of the National Invitation at New York, Mt. St. Mary's take on the NCAA small college title at Evansville, Ind., and Prairie View of Texas win the NAIA Crown at Kansas City.

Dayton Romps
Dayton outclassed Houston 94-77 and Loyola knocked off Temple 75-64. In first-round games, Duquesne beat Navy 70-58 and Holy Cross edged Colorado State University 72-71.

The NIT resumes action Tuesday night at Madison Square Garden with Duquesne (21-3) meeting Bradley (21-6) and Holy Cross (20-5) clashing with St. John's of New York (19-4) in quarter-final competition.

Mt. St. Mary's grabbed the NCAA small college laurels by edging Sacramento State 58-57 in overtime and Prairie View whipped Westminster (Pa.) 62-53 for NAIA honors.

Phila. Clubs Syracuse In NBA Playoffs

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—The Philadelphia Warriors moved into a commanding lead in their Eastern Division semifinal playoffs in the National Basketball Association Sunday with a 97-82 victory over the Syracuse Nats.

Philadelphia now leads the best-of-five series 2-0 and needs only one more victory to move into the divisional final against Boston.

Will Chamberlain, the Warriors' 50-point a game scorer, was held to a mere 28 but was high in the low-gear, cold-shooting game. Tom Meschery added 26 and Paul Arizin 24 for the winners, while John Kerr topped Syracuse with 16, 14 of them in the first half.

Syracuse held a 27-26 edge after the opening period but the Warriors gradually got ahead and led 54-43 at the half.

After Master's Degree

Hook Has More Than Ball On His Mind During Season

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The space age has come to baseball. The New York Mets' Jay Hook will spend his idle moments this summer writing a thesis for his master's degree in engineering. The title is "Teaching space technology to elementary school students."

Hook, 25, a graduate of Northwestern University with a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering, is serious about his education. He spent the winter months teaching elementary school in Columbus, Ga., as part of his program for an advanced degree at Northwestern. He is considering going on for his doctorate.

"I try not to mix my studies and baseball," said the right-handed pitcher. "Some people think I am not completely dedicated to baseball just because I have other things on my mind. Just because I buy a life insurance policy, doesn't mean I want to die. I think a man should prepare for the future when his baseball days will be over. I am fortunate enough to make enough in baseball (plus a $60,000 bonus) to finance my education."

Physics Project
Hook said the Columbus, Ga., job was an experimental project to see if grade school children could comprehend the basic principles of physics.

"It worked out well," he said. "The biggest thing in every newspaper these days is space. Isn't it our responsibility to teach the youngsters about space? I tried not to mix them up too much."

Otis Douglas (Cincinnati coach) taught physical conditioning and Mike Jennings, the man who specialized in "instinct shooting," taught creative writing at the same school. Jim Brosnan (Cincinnati pitcher-author) was supposed to be there too, but he got tied up with his new book.

"I am doing graduate work in gas dynamics, a facet of mechanical engineering, working on applied physics in this new era of rocket propulsion. I had planned to finish my master's last winter but we got in the world series and that delayed my start."

Fairfield's 66 Ties Boynton At St. Pete

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Don Fairfield of Champaign, Ill., blazed home with a 6-under-par 66 in Sunday's third round and tied for the lead in the $20,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament.

Frank Boynton of Corpus Christi, Tex., leader in the first two rounds, carded a one-over-par 73 Sunday for a three-round total of 207 and a tie with Fairfield.

However, it's not entirely a battle between Fairfield and Boynton in Monday's final round of the 72-hole event.

Grouped just one stroke behind at 208 were Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., Juan Rodriguez, Puerto Rico, Bobby Nichols, Midland, Tex., and Jim Ferrie, Burbank, Calif.

Ferrie made the second place group by holing a 30-foot chip shot on the 18th green.

Heats Off, So Snell Sets World's Indoor Mile Mark

TOKYO (AP)—With the "no smoking" signs posted and the heat turned down, New Zealand's fabulous Peter Snell blazed to another track record Sunday, posting a world indoor mark of 1:49.9.

Snell, 23, who smashed both the world outdoor mile and half-mile records earlier this year, clipped three-tenths of a second off the indoor 880-yard standard he set Feb. 9 in Los Angeles.

When he ran the mile in 4:06.7 Saturday, Snell complained that the Tokyo Metropolitan Gym, where the Japan National Track and Field Championships are being held, was too smoky and stuffy.

So Sunday the officials posted the no smoking orders and turned off some of the electric heaters in the 5,000-seat arena, which was packed to capacity for Snell's performance.

Double Winner
Hayes Jones of Pontiac, Mich., the world's premier hurdler, was a double winner. He took the 60-yard high hurdles in 7.1 and the 60-yard dash in 6.1.

World record holder and Olympic champion Ralph Boston from Tennessee State won his specialty with a leap of 24 feet, 4 inches and placed second to Jones in the hurdles.

John Uelses, the German-born U.S. Marine who is the world's only 16-foot pole vaulter, cleared 15-2½ in an exhibition but failed four times at 15-9.

Murray Halberg of New Zealand, holder of the world 2-mile and 3-mile records, won the 2-mile in 8:50.8.

Dear Abby

Can You Top This?

Dear Abby: Everyone at our bridge club roared over the letter in your column from the wife who complained because, in 37 years of marriage, her husband had not had 37 baths. I wasn't laughing, because I am married to a man something like that. He will bathe, but he won't wash his head because he thinks that too much water will cause him to lose his hair. I have yelled myself hoarse about how a clean scalp will help him to KEEP his hair, but it does no good. You know how terrible an unclean head can smell! Well, he has a big nose, but can't smell a thing. I usually end up by saying, "O.K., so go down and sleep with the dog." And he does. What should I do?

NOT LAUGHING

Dear Not: Any woman who can tell her husband to go down and sleep with the dog, and get away with it, has no problem. But her husband has. When he writes to me, I'll tell HIM what to do.

Dear Abby: My daughter-in-law is a pleasant enough person. She is a good mother and housekeeper, and my son seems to be satisfied with her. But she is a "ME" and "MINE" person. She says, "MY house, MY children, MY car and MY everything." Don't you think she should be thoughtful enough of her husband's efforts to say "OUR" instead? She reads your column.

Disgusted Mother-in-Law

Dear Disgusted: Yes, but don't be too critical. Her personal performance is more important than her possessive pronouns.

Dear Abby: We have a problem. There are six of us brothers and sisters. Last NOVEMBER we gave our parents a beautiful golden wedding anniversary party. They had their pictures in the newspapers and it was a big social event in town. This APRIL our oldest brother will be 50 years old and his stupid wife wants to give him a big 50th birthday party.

According to our calculations, he was, born five months after our parents' marriage. Don't you think she should forget his 50th birthday party idea?

THE FAMILY

Dear Family: Not all birthdays and anniversaries are celebrated on the exact date. If your brother's wife were to give the 50th birthday party some time during the "golden year," it would serve the purpose. (Silence, too, is golden.)

Confidential To Sammy: When the cat's away, some nice cat like rats. Next time stay home.

Stop worrying. Let Abby, help you with that problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Art Center Extremely Popular

EXTREMELY popular with a growing number of late winter Pocono guests are the contemporary art exhibits presented by the Pocono Art Center, at the J. C. Penney Building Gallery, in Stroudsburg.

According to the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, both guests and hotel owners have taken advantage of the Center's unique rental plan which allows a prospective purchaser to hang a painting in his office or his home for up to three months to see if "it goes with the surroundings."

All rental fees are applied to the purchase price if the painting is bought.

New Zealand Brides

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—U.S. Navy men stationed at Antarctic advance headquarters in Christchurch have taken home 88 New Zealand brides since winding up activities at the base this season. A large number of the Navy men and their brides left for the United States by air Friday.

In addition to attending art shows and buying paintings, the more artistically inclined guests are participating in such regularly scheduled classes as pottery, painting, little theatre, china painting, and ballet.

A special class in oil painting for teenagers is held Saturday mornings.

MUSKOGEE MIRACLE

It happened in the schools of Muskogee, Oklahoma, when 6,557 youngsters took simple tests to measure their physical fitness. Result: 3,043 failed. But after only six weeks of supervised vigorous physical activity, 78.9 percent passed—and learned how much fun it is to exercise and keep fit. Does your child's school have a supervised physical education program that gets the kids—boys and girls—to exercise vigorously at least 15 minutes every day? If not, it's up to you to see that such a program is started. The sooner, the better. Act at your next PTA meeting!

Retirement Funds

By William A. Doyle

Q. My husband will retire in September, at which time his annual income will be reduced one-third—$5,000. We have only $1,500 in a savings account. The present market value of our common stocks (Xerox, McCrory, Kansas City Power & Light, Paddington and Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad) totals about $5,300. My husband recently sold some Zenith stock to buy the C&O, which pays a high dividend.

A. He is now considering selling all the other stocks and buying more C&O. What do you think about this idea?

A. It would be a calculated risk. It might very well work out. But it might not.

C&O now pays dividends on its common stock at the rate of $4 a year. Based on its present value, that results in a current yield of better than seven percent. That's much higher than the yield on any of your other stocks.

However, there is some doubt that the C&P will continue to pay that dividend on its common stock.

Last year the company's profits were equal to only $3.60 on each share of its common stock. So far this year earnings have increased. If they continue to rise, the $4 dividend should be safe. If not, the dividend could very well be cut.

The sale of Zenith was a natural move. This is a good growth stock. But it does not pay high dividends. The same thing goes for Xerox. And, because you are interested in cash income, the sale of Paddington might also be wise. But don't be in a big hurry to sell your Kansas City P&L and McCrory common stocks. The former has a current yield of three percent and the latter has a current yield of four percent. That's pretty good for sound investments, with reasonable growth potential.

Q. I inherited 11 shares of Standard Brands common stock. I don't know much about stock. So I left my stock with a brokerage firm, with instructions to send the dividends to me. Recently, I received a check for my dividend, amounting to $4.95. That's only 45 cents a share dividend.

A friend of mine showed me a report in the paper that Standard Brands pays dividends of $1.80 on its common stock. What will I have to do to get all my dividends?

A. You'll have to wait. You and your friend didn't read the report in the newspaper closely enough. Standard Brands does pay dividends on its common stock at the annual rate of $1.80 per share. That is the annual dividend rate.

However, like many other companies, Standard Brands makes dividend payments quarterly—every three months. So, with the $1.80 annual rate, it makes quarterly dividend payments of 45 cents. You got your full dividend. The brokerage firm isn't trying to cheat you.

That dividend on Standard Brands common stock, by the way, was increased last year. The latest three quarterly payments have been 45 cents a share. Before that, the dividend was 40 cents quarterly.

The dividend payments on this stock have been increased a half-dozen times in the past 10 years.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Master Builders Plan Meeting

THE March meeting of the Monroe County Master Builders Association will be held as a dinner meeting at the Cherry Valley Inn, Delaware Water Gap. The sponsor of this meeting is the Crane Plumbing Company.

During the business meeting there will be a report from the local members who attended the National Home Builders Convention at Atlantic City. There will also be reports and discussion on the Parade of Homes scheduled for April 28 and 29.

Clarence Rutt Named To Phila. Vacation Show Board

CLARENCE S. Rutt, of 1018 W. Main St., Stroudsburg, Pa., promotion manager of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, has been named to the Planning and Advisory Board of the Philadelphia Travel and Vacation Show.

Announcement of Rutt's appointment was made by John B. Kelly, Jr., show president. The Philadelphia Travel and Vacation Show will be in Convention Hall from April 19-28, 1962. It will feature the largest and most widely assorted group of travel and vacation exhibits ever viewed in the Greater Philadelphia area.

Kelly said that Rutt will coordinate show exhibits for members of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau. The bureau has a membership of more than 230 resort attractions in a 1,500-square mile area of the Poconos. Rutt has been a resident of the Stroudsburg area since 1919. He holds membership in the Elks and the Central Labor Union Club of Stroudsburg. Among the local exhibitors for whom the Philadelphia Travel and Vacation Show is reserving space is the Pocono Honey-moon Resort Association. Participating in this exhibit will be Paradise Valley Lodge, Mt. Pocono; Pocono Gardens Lodge, Cresco; Strickland's Mountain Inn, Mt. Pocono; Penn Hills Lodge, Ansonia; Honey-moon Haven, Dingmans Ferry; Cove Haven, Lakeville; and Birchwood Lodge, East Stroudsburg. This group's exhibit is being coordinated by John G. Valence, of Stroudsburg.

Executive offices for the show are located at 845 N. Broad St., Philadelphia 23, Pa.

PORTLAND Boy Scout Troop 71 met Wednesday night in the Portland school gymnasium. It was announced that the scouts will sell Easter candy. It will be distributed on March 21 for sale to the public.

The Portland Lions Club met at 6:30 p.m. at 5 Acres, restaurant, Bridgeville, N.J., Thursday. Kent Anthony, Public Relations Department of Trans-Continental Pipe Line, showed a sound movie on the methods used to pipe natural gas from the well cities in Texas to consumers along the route, a distance of 1800 miles, ending in New York City. Much of the film pertained to the digging and installation of the pipe, and the problems confronted in the construction. Bert Hosier gave the invocation. Harold Kinney led the singing. 17 members were present.

WELLS is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 4. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
